Gleneagle Truffle Dogs is announcing the first truffle detection dog seminar of 2009. This seminar will be held at Gleneagle Farm located in the heart of the Shenandoah Valley and minutes from some of the finest dining in northern Virginia.

The seminar will be covering a number of training techniques essential to the selection of a detection dog. Correct initial olfactory scent association. Construction and utilization of your training aids to maintain a clear and distinct scent picture. Establishing proper search techniques and patterns, allowing for better coverage of your truffle groves. And a greater sense of control of your dog as they search. We will provide you with training scenario's to help you maintain your dog physically and mentally during the non-growing season. You will be provided with problem solving techniques, that can be applied immediately as soon as a problem is noticed. You will be provided hands on training for you and your dog to give you more confidence in your ability to work and read your dog as they search. A goodtime should be had by all.

A limited number of spaces will be available for handlers and their dogs, so register soon. Seminar fee $300.00 for both days. $50.00 non-refundable deposit required for registration.

A complete lunch will be provided for all participants on both Sat/Sun. Please bring your dogs handling equipment and the reward that you provide your dog when working. Water/water bowls for your dog; the weather will be warm and all training will be held outdoors. Dog crates are recommended.
